

Grow Virtually Winter/Spring 2026

Expand your gardening “know how” by attending Grow Virtually, our live and online horticultural education series presented free via ZOOM. To register simply click on the webinar title, QR code, or go to our website: <https://www.cobbmastergardeners.com>

Tuesday, February 17, 2026, 7 pm – 8 pm

Rain Gardens: A Solution for Pollution

Clay soils and slope make many of our landscape designs a bit more challenging here than in other places. Make the best of it and our environment by working with the drainage and containing it, rather than sending it down the road. This program will be presented by Molly White of Future Farmers of America.

Tuesday, March 17, 2026, 7 pm – 8 pm

For a Greener Green for Less Green – How to Maintain Your Own Lawn

We could not think of a better topic for St. Patrick’s Day! Many homeowners struggle with keeping a green and healthy lawn, but that does not necessarily mean spending lots of your hard-earned dollars! Learn the research-based techniques for growing and maintaining a beautiful lawn, save money and get great results! Master Gardener Bob Wood will share his story as he shows you how.

Tuesday, April 21, 2026, 7 pm – 8 pm

Awesome Native Plants to Use in Your Garden

It’s National Park Week and time to celebrate our native American plants which make our parks so special! Many homeowners are starting to rethink their landscapes to include native varieties. Learn about the benefits of “going native” and get some great ideas for those best suited for our area from Master Gardener Howard Fry.

Tuesday, May 19, 2026, 7 pm – 8 pm

Tech Meets Nature

Ready to find that sweet spot between online apps and the outdoors? How do we use them to make our gardening easier, smarter, and more intentional? Let’s jump in with Master Gardener DeBorrah Tibbs and explore how tech and nature can work together to enhance the beauty, productivity, and resilience of our gardens.
